

Guantanamo Detainee Processes

Detainee Administrative Review

Definition/purpose: Annual review to determine the need to continue the detention of an enemy combatant. The review includes an assessment of whether the enemy combatant poses a threat to the United States or its allies in the ongoing armed conflict against terrorist such as al Qaeda and its affiliates and supporters and whether there are other factors bearing on the need for continued detention (e.g., intelligence value). Based on that assessment, a review board will recommend whether an individual should be released, transferred or continue to be detained. This process will help ensure no one is detained any longer than is warranted, and that no one is released who remains a threat to our nation's security.

Applies to: All GTMO detainees

Combatant Status Review

Definition/purpose: A formal review of all the information related to a detainee to determine whether each person meets the criteria to be designated as an enemy combatant. (Enemy combatant is defined as an individual who was part of or supporting Taliban or al Qaeda forces, or associated forces that are engaged in hostilities against the United States or its coalition partners. This includes any person who has committed a belligerent act or has directly supported hostilities in aid of enemy armed forces.)

Commissions

Definition/purpose: Prosecute enemy combatants who violate the laws of war. Provides a fair and full trial, while protecting national security and the safety of all those involved, including the accused.

Applies to: Non-U.S. citizens, found to be subject to the President's military order of Nov. 13, 2001; primarily based upon the individual's participation in al Qaeda and acts of international terrorism. As of July 7, 2004, fifteen detainees have been found to be subject to the President's military orders.
